

ADVANCED TRAINING PLAN

This plan is aimed at those with a high level of fitness, i.e. you regularly train four times a week or more. Use this plan to create an indoor rowing focused workout or to supplement your existing gym routine. This plan is designed to help you get the most out of your 2,000m row.

THINGS TO REMEMBER WHEN TRAINING...

Always consult your doctor before starting any exercise programme to determine if it is right for your needs. The training programmes and recommendations contained within this website are not intended to be a substitute for professional medical advice, diagnosis or treatment. The use of the training programmes is at your own risk. British Rowing shall not be liable for any damages or injuries, however caused, occurring during or after adopting the training programmes or other recommendations made.

Warm up and cool down	Always perform a suitable warm up and cool down before and after every session. Example warm up: 5-10 minutes on another piece of equipment followed by some dynamic stretching. Example cool down: 3 minutes light rowing followed by static stretching of main muscles used (glutes, hamstrings, quads).
Rowing technique	Drive phase: from the start the sequence is LEGS pushed flat, BODY lean back a little, ARMS pull through. Recovery phase: (the reverse of the Drive) ARMS straighten, then BODY leans over; then LEGS bend up to bring you back to the start. For a more detailed look at indoor rowing technique, check out our technique video with double Olympic champion Alex Gregory on the British Rowing YouTube channel.
What is a split?	The 'split' is the time it takes to row 500m. The harder you work, the quicker you will row 500m and therefore the lower the split. Aim to be consistent with your splits on all of these workouts. Ensure the display on the monitor shows the split i.e. 0:00/500m.
What is the resistance level?	Set the damper lever to 4 or below. This will help you to maintain good technique for the duration of your workout.
What is the SPM?	SPM stands for Strokes Per Minute. As the stroke rate increases, the split should naturally drop because you will be rowing faster and working harder. At a slower stroke rate you should be able to maintain your splits for longer. To increase the stroke rate focus on driving/pushing harder with the legs whilst still taking your time on the recovery.
What is cross training?	Cross training is when you use another piece of cardio equipment to supplement your training routine. The cross training below (Session 3) will help to build your endurance fitness whilst providing variety to your weekly training routine.
Remember to include	Strength exercises such as squats and lunges. Core exercises that focus on lower back e.g. plank, side plank, dorsal raises. Stretches for your hip flexors and calves.
